THURSDAY.

TO AGENTS—A CORRECTION.

In yesterday's JOURNAL by the omission of a clause in the article "To Agents," the concluding sentence was made to read differently from what was intended. The sentence should read:

"On muslin and carpet work previous discounts may be given; viz., 10 per cent. to largest wholesale dealers and jobbers, and from 2½ to 5 per cent. to retail dealers."

The mistake occurred from a failure to read the article by copy before going to press.

The Community have bought Mr. Davis's strawberries—about two acres, which are expected to yield 200 bushels—for $775. Mr. Davis picks the berries in the bargain. He thinks there will be a 1000 quarts to-day.

We had considerable company yesterday. Among others was a company of about thirty-two from Canastota, Wampsville and a number of other places. They had a general understanding and appointment to meet here. Some of them came about thirty miles. Being shut into the house during most of the afternoon by the rain, and also being at the highest key of hilarity and good humor, they overflowed the house generally. They seemed, however, to manifest no intentional disrespect, and when checked in some of their tendencies to rudeness took it in good part and helped to keep each other within appropriate bounds. There were a number of fine singers and musicians among them, and they seemed to enjoy gathering in the Hall and playing and singing in various ways—solos duetts, full chorus &c. They called for $1 dinners, and left about six o'clock.

Another five o'clock bee this morning. Result 237 quarts. Picking will probably go on all day if the weather permits. About a dozen hired pickers are employed at 2 cts. a quart.

320 quarts were picked yesterday,

A letter was received a few days ago from Mrs. Munson, showing more earnestness than any of her previous ones. She is still at Ridgeway in this State, and wishes to know, if she should go east this season, whether she can stop here for a visit of a few days.

The work of moving buildings goes on. The rain interfered with the operations somewhat yesterday. Today the White-house is being placed on its foundations, and the carpenters are busy getting the wing ready for moving. Meanwhile the stone wall of the old cellar is being carted away.

52 dinners were furnished to visitors yesterday.

To-day is cool, cloudy and pleasant—a fine day for berry-harvesting. The berries picked this morning were very fine, and the beds yielded quite abundantly.

Three crates and two baskets of cherries were received this morning in good condition. They cost 7 cts. a lb.—40 lbs. to the bushel.

The night-blooming cereus at the green-house, opened one of its magnificent white flowers last night, and was the center of attraction for some time after meeting.

Martin came home about 8½ o'clock last evening, and started again for Troy at about 11½ P. M. He had succeeded in making more favorable arrangements with the Express Company for the transportation of berries, and all the berries he could get to Troy to-day he expected to sell for 25 cts. a quart.

Mr. VanVelzer finds it difficult to leave the shop to go west to attend to cherry picking, and consequently some other man will probably be selected for that purpose.

METEOROLOGICAL.

Thermometer, June 27.

6 A. M. 69. Cloudy. 12 M. 80. Cloudy. 6 P. M. 67.
A heavy shower came on just after noon, and most of the afternoon was rainy.
