Yale vs. Hamilton.

Dance week concluded, it augured well for the persuasive powers of Hamilton men that they were able to keep so many of the fair ones over for the Yale game on Saturday night. The flurry of snow and the increasing volume of the wind aroused fears of belated trains and stalled trolleys. And the fears were not in vain. Hour after hour was spent waiting for the afternoon "tram" but it did not appear. Finally a group of about 250 gathered in the O. & W. station waiting for that train reported "on time". But the time table for the evening had been changed and the new time was 7:30 p. m. A few men assuming choral ability crowded together in a mass and sent forth loud wails of discord. At last the train came and was boarded. Utica was reached safely and all repaired to the Armory to watch the combat between the best big college and the best small one. A preliminary game was on. Utica Free Academy battled with the 44th Separate Company. C. T. Ives was the umpire, and it is unnecessary to add that the game was extremely rough, and unsportsmanlike. Yale appeared on the floor between the halves of the preliminary and was greeted with a yell from Hamilton. U. F. A. defeated their larger neighbors 26-10; and the "big" game was on at 9:50 with McLaughlin, '01, Hamilton, as referee. The teams were evenly matched in weight but Eli's sons were taller and could reach farther. The game was fast throughout and was devoid of rough playing. Four fouls were made by each side, but they were entirely unintentional. Weymouth, the Yale center was easily the star of the game; he was heavy and quick but little Sherrill's tricks kept him guessing. They were the most interesting pair on the floor.

Yale won the toss and within a short time W. Hyatt had landed the ball in the basket. Hamilton got possession of the ball and after a series of passes by Sherman, Peet and Tommy, Hamilton tossed a basket about three minutes after play began. After the ball had surged across the room, back again and to Yale's territory, W. Hyatt added another basket. Hamilton fouls and Yale fails on try for goal; Tommy dribbled the ball to Yale's territory where Colton recovery it. W. Hyatt makes another goal. Colton soon added three more points for Yale. A double foul followed and Colton and Tommy were both successful in throwing goals. Hyatt throws another goal and Weymouth followed. Sherman fouls and Colton fails to score. Another foul by Hamilton and another failure for Colton. The half ended with the score of 19 to 4—Yale.

The second half opened faster than the first. Hall was in Colton's place at right forward. For the first three minutes no goals were thrown but Davy made a pretty dribble. Peet and Sherman had good chances for the basket but fail. Yale fouls. McLaughlin makes the goal. R. Hyatt throws a basket on a pass from Weymouth. Yale fouls and Hamilton fails of goal. W. Hyatt swells the score by three and two minutes are left for play. Yale then gave a fine exhibition of basket ball, throwing four goals in rapid succession and the final score is 40 to 5 in Yale's favor.

The line up and summary:

Yale.	Hamilton.
	Right Forward.
Colton, (Hall),	Peet.
	Left Forward.
R. Hyatt,	McLaughlin.
	Center.
Weymouth,	S. Sherman.
	Right Guard.
Lockwood, (Capt.)	Mangan.
	Left Guard.
W. Hyatt,	Busch.
Officials: Referee — W. McLaughlin, '01, Hamilton; umpires, Lewis, '02, Hamilton, and Hall (Colton), Yale; timekeepers, N. L. Drummond, 'Hamilton, '02, and Woodward, Yale.
Goals—Weymouth, 5, W. Hyatt, 4.

Hall, 2, Colton, R. Hyatt, McLaughlin. Goals from fouls Colton, McLaughlin, 2. Fouls—Yale 4, Hamilton 4. Time of halves—20 minutes.

A BRIEF CRITICISM.

Tommy cut loose several times and had a good opportunity to make a goal, but wild throws from other members of the team prevented him from doing all that he could have done if more care had been used in passing. Peet was invariably too low in his throws and this is his greatest fault. Mangan played a steady game but ought to use his head more. He is wild on his passes. However, he played the best we have yet seen of him. Busch was too slow Saturday night and appeared to have lost discretion. When the ball came his way or he saw his opponent about to receive a pass, he ought to keep the other fellow guessing more. Sherman played a good game considering the proposition he had to meet. Although his man threw the most goals Sherrill did some very clever work in handling the big man, but he was also wild in passing and didn't get after the ball enough when it was rolling about on the floor within a few feet of him. The whole team can be criticized on this point. And now let's get into the game and rip up the rest of the schedule. We can do it. Why not? Train, practice and fight for it and the college will help you along.

The titled "dress rehearsal" of the events to be presented at the exhibition will occur on Tuesday afternoon, the 18th, the day previous to the principal and proper demonstration. As this is the only opportunity to get orientations and general bearings, it is especially urged that each and every participant be present to fulfill his part. The rehearsal will begin punctually at 4 P. M. It is desired that, aside from competitors, the officials of conduct be in attendance also, since their presence is as requisite as any.

It is besought by "Uncle John" that none save those who assume a part put in an appearance. It is a strictly exclusive affair and the college will have adequate acumen to appreciate the rationale request. The practice will be more pantomime than play.

Let every man be prompt and punctual, as there will be no waiting on anybody's leisure. At 4 o'clock the performance will be commenced! Let no one fail.

Track Team Prospects.

The winter term is half gone. Spring comes late on the hill; and our track meets come early. Those who wore the spikes last year know of the uncertainty of fair weather in the spring-time and of the necessity of an early training to compete successfully against southern or western opponents. Thus far our physical energy has been spent in other lines of work. Junior prom. is now behind us and our thoughts are turned once more to the realm of athletics. The question naturally arises, "What kind of a track team are we going to have this year?" And the answer immediately follows: "Our prospects were never brighter."

Athletic interests are now uniformly centered in the gymnasium exhibition which will be given in a few days. Immediately following this, systematic work for the spring will begin. Of course, some work has already been done along certain lines of athletics, but no earnest training such as is imperative to making the track team has commenced. Those who are intending to try for the team will be called out earlier this year, owing to the exceedingly short time that will be allowed them to get into shape. In view of the fact that the spring field meet will be held during the first week of May, hard, systematic work will be demanded in a short time.

Full negotiations have not yet been concluded, though we are prepared to announce that the track men will be treated to an unusually large amount of good sport. We shall undoubtedly have no less than four meets, including the spring field day. These will all be given within thirty days, which means that not more than one week will intervene between any two meets.

Though we are not prepared to announce finally, as has been said, in all probability we shall meet Rutgers on the track in Binghamton soon after our own preliminary trial contests. The Rochester track team will, if satisfactory arrangements as to date can be made, contest for honors on Steuben Field about the middle of May. The management intends to bring the season to a climax by introducing to the home grounds the sturdy sons of Colgate.

This meet, with its assured interest and friendly rivalry, will be not only a noble incentive to harder work, but also a fitting consummation for the season. We shall not have the old-time track athletic championship to win or lose, but the glory and honor which will belong to the college in each and the last meet, will fully repay with interest every man who helps to win. If we are to win this year and make the name of Hamilton feared upon the track, we must be willing to train long and faithfully; and then to go in determined to breast the tape first; the weight men must "keep at it"; the jumpers and vaulters need continued and patient practice, and the runners must "hang on" and run until their legs begin to wobble; keep going until they are ready to drop, then shut their eyes and sprint.

When the call comes for candidates every man who thinks he can do any work in track athletics should respond. There are a number of men in the class of 1905, who are showing up well and who will unquestionably win their track "H" in the spring. There will be plenty of opportunities to win the necessary two points to qualify as eligible to wear the letter. "Uncle John" and the captain wish to impress upon the minds of the men the necessity of an early start and of hard work in order to realize the expectations of the college. So be ready. Enjoy your pipe while possible; then when the time comes join in making this the most successful track team Hamilton ever had.

If all my smiles united were
In one continuous smile,
I'm sure that I have grinned about
A happy half-a-mile. —Ex.

THE administration has entered into the field of journalism. Henceforth according to an announcement in the first issue, there will be published quarterly from the college a magazine, whose editor, proprietor and business manager is the president of the college. Its avowed purpose is to furnish information to graduates concerning "the life and work of their alma mater." Prize awards will be published, the Commencement Bulletin will be the larger part of the July issue, and the mail book will constitute an issue every two years. Athletics will be reported, alumni notes will be a feature; in short the Record so far as we are able to judge, is to parallel the work hitherto done by the Literary Monthly. Just why a new magazine was started in place of all loaning their efforts toward improving the Lit. the editor does not presume to say. Henceforth there are to be two magazines, one published by the students and the other by the administration. The result of the slaughter will be watched with interest by the student body. Meanwhile we await the issue of the Lit., whose field has been trampled and whose work is to be duplicated.

THE second gymnastic and athletic indoor exhibition will take place in the "gym" next Wednesday evening. The proceeds will be used for athletic interests. This was one of the most pleasing sights seen on the hill last year and the reputation of its worthiness as a pleasure to onlookers, has been steadily growing ever since. Let's seize the chance to shake up the old building and give some good old Hamilton yells. So everybody out and yell it up.

THROUGH carelessness, thoughtlessness or some other inexcusable reason, those using the "gym" dressing-room have borrowed, on several occasions, the suits, shoes and other paraphernalia belonging to the basket-ball team without taking the care nor the trouble to return the same, or if they did their position in the room was so changed as to require a half hour's search to find them. Who is guilty? We know the names of some, and for downright petty selfishness for their own pleasure we have never seen their equals. They have earned a reputation which no one will care to steal from them. Be considerate of other people and return what you borrow.

It seems rather unfortunate that so many of our important basket-ball games come so near together, but it has been unavoidable. The game with Colgate will be played this evening. They are coming up with the intention of winning, but let us repeat our experience of last year and win the game, although they defeated us on their floor this year. We ought to have a big crowd to yell. On the 20th is the game with Rochester and on the 24th the game with the University of Pennsylvania. Both of these games are very important and as their guarantees are necessarily big, good support is demanded. These will be all the games on the hill this year, so let everyone show a large amount of college spirit and get out for each game, and yell it up so that old Hamilton will win.

Baseball Prospects.

Now that winter term practice has begun in the gymnasium LIFE offers to the college a brief sketch of the prospects for the season in baseball, so far as can be prophesied at the present time.

The two greatest losses from last year's graduating class are Captain Keogh, center field, and "Jess" Millham, 3d base. These places must be filled with new men and they are open to every man in college.

Of the remaining men Captain Hunter is one of the strongest on the team. He can play behind the bat or take care of first base in good shape. He is sure, steady and strong and keeps his head well. He will be a reliable man in whatever position he chooses to go.

Peet played 2d base last year and is also a good catcher. He is a good man to steady the team and keeps matters well "talked up". He will take care of his place all right. "Tommy" was at short and did well considering the fact that he was in a new position. With conscientious, regular and careful work he can make himself into a first rate player. He needs to practice batting. Durkee is the only pitcher left of the old team. He did well last year as a substitute, but he needs special lessons from some reliable pitcher. He is swift enough but needs more tricks.

Morris played some last year, but as yet he has been unable to bat well. This is his weak point and he needs to work hard to fill his position to full credit. Judd is a good man for 1st base. He has a good eye, bats well and keeps his head. With consistent training he can take care of the initial bag.

The baseball men outside of the freshman class now in college and who have been, or ought to be, on the field are: Church, Naylor, Burgess, Foreman, Arthur, Courtenay, Croft, Grant, Bastian, Bullard, A. S. Davis, Dowling, Knox, Soper, M. White, Carr, and Strickland, besides a score of others who can help fight old Hamilton's battles. Every member of the freshman class who has ever handled a ball at all is expected to commence now and try and make the team. There's a good chance to make it this year and if everyone will do his level best and each will offer to the captain and coach his entire ability, then Hamilton will put out a better team than last season's. It behooves everybody to help the team. If you can't play, encourage the others. Get out and show your interest. Give the team something to work for—your approbation—and you will be doing a great service. The team is fighting for you, not for personal glory. So all together and as a body let's throw ourselves into baseball, track, and basketball and stir up this old hillside as it never was before.

Clinton Scollard, A. M.

The new novel promised by Mr. Scollard of the class of '81 has appeared. It is entitled "The Cloistering of Ursula." The scene is laid in mediæval Italy. It is handsomely printed on antique laid paper, bound in red. The book is dedicated to Prof. W. P. Shepard of the college—a very intimate friend. The volume has been well received and promises to exceed in its sale former books by the same author. We congratulate Mr. Scollard and Prof. Shepard.

"Come Back."

Man is in truth but the oscillating "pendulum betwixt a smile and tear". We have all swung from the festive pole through the waning space until our destination, which is the polar opposite, seems our destiny and doom. The pendulum seems staid. But we have experimented with this experience in seasons prior and realize the validity of reaction, gravitation, and the level-seeking laws of liquid senses. Yet time is a slow and tedious medicator. His cures tarry in their insidious career. The darkness of a disillusioning dawn has palled upon us. What was but a short space ago is not. The flight of time and trams has altered transportation even. Studies which lapsed once now have us in their lair and we are stricken with an effort to subordinate our too repugnant mental powers to the demands imposed upon them. Talk of "darkling plains swept with confused alarms"! They are plainly outdone in manner productive of our consternation. But "all's well that ends well". The dances are now of "such stuff as dreams are made on" and we pirouette on meditative tiptoe, swirl to music of the spheres and curvette to a harmony which is but a bodiless creation of a cunning ecstasy. Past us in defiling columns promenade the specters of our visioned dreams. We now live in a two-shelved cosmos. The best we can do is to be impartial and endeavor to shell each with, of course, inadequate projectiles of insufficient range and erratic trajectory. But as we have observed, it will all come out in the wash, especially if we watch the process and attempt to regulate it.

The tunes of which we modulate our piping whistles will soon grow stale and quite unprofitable. The visions which haunt our ruminations now, will speedily grow vapid and life will assume its wonted monotony of tenor and fall back into the old main rut which is so ruthless. "Hence vain deluding joys" leave us in peace, even if in pieces, and will mend even though the repair be but a patch.

—On last Sunday evening, observing the day of universal prayer for students, special services were held in the Clinton Churches under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Allbright, '03, spoke in the Stone Church and Scoville, '02, in the Baptist Church. The Methodist Church united with the Stone Church for the evening. Several of the fellows from the hill assisted the choirs.

There was an unusually large attendance, and the address was both instructive and enjoyable. After the address Dr. Terrett was given a rising vote of thanks, and light refreshments were served.—Utica Press.

A Dethroned Monarch.

“Pop” Clark mourns the loss of a distinction which he has held ever since entering this old college. He passed successfully through freshman, sophomore and junior years, happy in the thought that he of all others in his class was of a dual nature—two halves; and now in the second term senior comes the announcement that his seat has been taken from under him, his horse has thrown him to the ground, his sword broken, and his crown dashed in pieces; while rocking the cradle of his young hopeful he grates his teeth and curses the luck which dethroned him. No more can his classmates point to the one man as authority on “petticoat perfidy.” Another has sought and obtained what “Pop” has so long cherished, and the anguish of it harrows up his usually placid soul. But never mind, “Pop,” you still have the chin beard, the air of domestic tranquility and the age of wisdom. Farewell, Oh dethroned monarch, and hail Oh prince who hereafter shall reign with you! “Pop” and Weaver; husbands of years and a day. Good-bye to the old and all hail to the new.

The Junior Prom. Committee.

Last year the committee appointed to look after the arrangements for a class dance, announced that if the participants in the Prom. festivities would stand an extra assessment of 50 cents on each ticket they could give better satisfaction, and the proceeds, beyond the expenses, would be given to athletics. This year a committee, notorious for its novelties, charged the same amount; the college supposed of course, that they would follow precedent and public spirit and do their duty likewise in returning the funds borrowed from each man who attended the Prom. Either this committee is exceedingly slow or intends to quietly pocket the money so intrusted to them. Feeling on the subject is running high just at present, and it is safe to say that the college knows the men and is waiting to see whether they possess public spirit or personal greed. Certainly they should have made a mint of money, with such programs and with no other extras! The age of miracles has not yet passed.
